Further resources

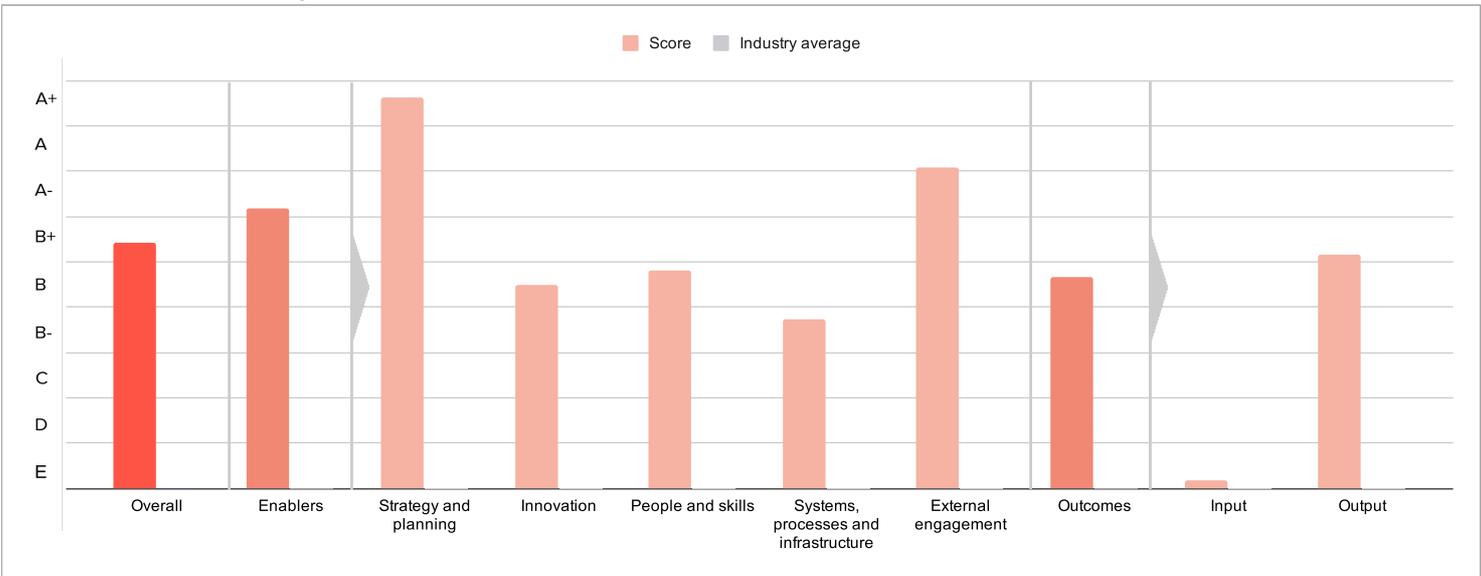

Thank you for participating in Circulytics. This scorecard gives an overview of your company's progress on the journey towards circular economy, by way of two overarching categories 'Enablers' and 'Outcomes', as well as the seven themes within these categories.

We encourage you to dive into areas where your company has opportunity for improvement, and hope that the theme level scores help you to prioritise activities. Due to team capacity constraints, we provide bespoke analyst commentary to companies within the EMF network and to companies with over 1bn USD annual revenue. Having said that, we invite you to explore the following resources to further your company's progress towards being a circular business.

Browse the Ellen MacArthur Foundation's extensive library of case studies, tagged by themes and indicators, for inspiration: <https://www.ellenmacarthurfoundation.org/circulytics-cases>
 Discover an abundance of resources for the business context in the Learning Hub under <https://www.ellenmacarthurfoundation.org/explore>
 Aspiring to commit further? Learn more about the Foundation's network of organisations at <https://www.ellenmacarthurfoundation.org/our-work/activities/ce100>

We look forward to seeing your circular achievements and invite you to refresh your assessment after we launch Circulytics 2.0 in October 2020.

Score chart and industry benchmark*

* Industry average available when there is data from >5 companies in your industry

You may (but not otherwise):

- I. use your Circulytics score, the Questionnaire and all related materials and information you have access to (including any content you upload), in the ordinary course of business but otherwise as you see fit, in order to facilitate your organisation's understanding of the circular economy and to help in the creation of effective solutions for the circular economy for your organisation's own internal use and not for any commercial purpose.
- II. for the duration of the period of the licence for undertaking the same (as referred to in the terms and conditions for Circulytics), publicise your Circulytics score, and any information provided to you by the Ellen MacArthur Foundation (EMF) in connection with it, provided that: you state that your Circulytics score has been generated using EMF's Circulytics score and Circulytics method; you state that EMF does not endorse your organisation and that EMF has not verified the information provided to it in generating the Circulytics score; and you use the Circulytics logo, in accordance with EMF's branding guidelines.

You must not licence, sell, rent, lease, sub-let, transfer, assign, distribute, display or otherwise commercially exploit, or make materials and information you have access to through your participation in Circulytics available to any third party. You must not use or disclose any such materials and information except as may be expressly permitted or authorised in advance in writing by EMF.

The licence to publicise your Circulytics score and use the Circulytics logo is for an initial period of 12 months from the date listed on this scorecard. However, this may be extended for up to 6 months depending on whether you are participating in the next version of Circulytics and the progress of your submission. Please see the terms and conditions for more information.
